UHS Digital Newspaper is LIVE!!!

Visit www.uhsunitedpress.com The United Press, the digital school newspaper of Union High School, launches with a mission of providing a media platform for our student body. For the last two months, the United Press team has been reimagining our school newspaper, and working to convert our formerly print-only newspaper to the digital age, all with input and assistance from various students.

Readers can view daily articles on various topics including: news (including school, local, and national stories), sports (school and national stories), opinion, features (including artist spotlight, comics, creative writing, and photo of the week), and monthly highlights (including alumni, student, and teacher of the month).

With Union High School's student body of over two thousand students, the United Press team sees this as a unique opportunity to unite our school community behind interesting, and high-quality, and student-produced storytelling, while also providing a platform for our audience and editorial staff to speak for themselves.

This theme of unity will be integrated into every component of United Press, and was the inspiration behind our new name, website's look, logo, and overall strategy. United Press articles are produced by both our school's journalism class and voluntary club members. UHS students interested in contributing to United Press, please see Mrs. Sterling in Room B102.
